Excerpt from Money the Acid Test: Studies in Stewardship, Covering the Principles and Practise of One's Personal Economics, for Use in Bible Classes, Discussion Groups, Young People's Societies, and Similar Gatherings

Important as it is to understand the principles which regulate the mutual relationships of the Individual and Society, it is no less essential to master the fundamental relations between the Individual and God, involved as these are in man's possession and use of God's property.

Moreover, in the whole process, from the acquiring of property or its equivalent in money to the final accounting, the main consideration is given in this course to the reflex effect upon character. It is this vital element in the subject which invests it with such solemn, such stupendous importance. Money, most common of temporal things, involves uncommon and eternal consequences.

No wonder, then, that God has given stewardship so important a place in the training of the human race. It is one of the divine kindergarten methods of developing human life. The grace of giving is God's antidote for human selfishness. It has three distinct angles of relation in which to be viewed: upward, in relation to God; inward, in relation to the Individual; outward, in relation to Society. The field which lies within the outward angle, having to do with the Individual's relation to the community, has been well covered by those who specialize in political economy and in social service. We concern ourselves now more particularly with the other aspects, comparatively neglected as yet, that have to do with the relation which a man's things have to God and to man's own self-expression.
